GEN. BUCKNER DOWN IN THE MOUTH.

We are informed on reliable sutmority that Gen. Buckner has found himself, in his Invasion of Kentucky, deeply disappointed. His friends in Louisville and throughout the State gave him the strongest assurances, that, if he would come to this city or even to Bowling Green at the head of a lorse capable of maintaing its position for a short time, rainforcements would immediately pour in by thou soud, rendering his army too powerful to be resisted. Unquestionably he came with the tell corriction that these camprances would be tell corriction that these camprances would the of felors.

Of course Buckner and his Confederate banditti contemplate at present no enterprise in this direction. The destruction of the Green River bridge is conclusive agont that point. But our tacops can cross streams without the aid of bridges. "Follow me!" exclaimed the gallant Rousseau, when, in front of his mas, he leaped into the Rolling Fort. And "follow me!" the same boid leader will exclaim, when, in front of his mas, he shall leap into the waters of Green River.—Louiselle Journal, 15th.

BRECKINGIDGE TURNED UP-HARDER IN KENTUCKY.

BRECKINRIDGE TURNED UP—HARDER IN KENTUCKY.

A gentlemen direct from Bowling Green, says, that, when he left there, John C. Breckinzidge was just gouting up to make a speech. He states also, that Col. Hardee, lately in command in Arkansas and Missouri, had joined Buckner with his troops, and that Buckner's gumbers were now from twenty-five to thirty thousand. Another gestleman just from Bowling Green estimates Buckner's force st twenty-five thousand. It is very difficult to decide what should be believed. It troops from Missouri are pour ing into Kantucky, the fact would seem to indicase that the Confederates intend for the present to give Missouri my to Fremont. Supposing the statements we have received to be correct, the enemy has now nearly sightly thousand men upon Kentucky soil, and the number will no doubt be soon increased unless Gen. Fremont shall speedily start upon his great expedition down the Mississippi. A Mississippi officer at Bowling Green says that the Confederates have at no time had any other thought than to make Kentucky the main theatre of the war. Well, it shall go hard, but they will find her the hottest theatre that they ever set foot in—too hot, we trust, to hold them long.—Louisable Journal, 1504.

Tembersce line. Another detaccument of an hundred will meet the train of wagons at Campbellaville, Laylor county. The train, consisting of eighteen wagons, departed last evening. The members of Col. Grider's regiment who visited this city are a noble set of fellows. There are but few young men among them, the ranks being filled by hardy, sisiwart countrymen who are inserted to hardships and familiar with the rifle and endowed with a love of country and a patriotic ardor, the fires of which did not burn more warmly or brightly upon the altars of Roman hearts in the days of the old Empire's chiefest glory. The gainst fellows have traveled a clistance of more than one hundred miles on foot, braving the vicissitudes of freary forests, the tedium of rooky hills, and the hazards of exposure to the rebel enemy, to beg for guns wherewith to light the balties which, if successful, will save Loniwille from the sword and torch of the cruel and relatives Buckner and his piratical follow ers. They have left their homes, their wives, their babies, and all the loved ones behind them for the time; but they roturn now with a fresh hope—with hearts animated by a vow to do or die. I saw these men as they fifed out of our village yesterday, with their bright rifles in their hands. The sight was an in-precisive one—one not to be forgottes as a life time. There was no vain staget in those ranks; no boisterous auzies arose from the brake rifles in their hands. The sight was an in-precisive one—one not to be forgottes as a life time. There was no vain staget in those ranks; no boisterous auzies arose from the baw aw with a will which will will render them unconquerable. May the Godt of be the nerve their strong arms, and cheer their brave hearts for the context. It is the ambution of their gainst young clientain to set his foot upon Tennesce sed, and I mis-

the ambition of their gailant young chieftain to set his foot upon Tennessee soil, and I mis-take his mettle if there are not now victorious garlands wreath up for his proud front. REBELS IN PETTICOATS—THE HE DEVILS. REBRIS IN PETTICOATS—THE HE DEVILS.

The Frankfort Commonwealth has information from our southesserm connies which shows that acts of unparalleled acrocity have been committed upon clistons in that region. In Barbourville they took possession of the residence of G. M. Adams, tore up his carputs, desiroyed his furniture, converted his house into a culturary establishment, and, ignoring the garb suited to their sex, arrayed themselves in the silk dresses of his daughters, and so habited, performed the usual duties of cooks, becausering the silks with presse of the fryling pans, and cutting up such fantsetle tricks as would shame a Vandal and lead the gentle sex to believe that all chival y and true manhood had departed from the 1.ad.

The finest private residences in Barbours-ville have been converted into stables for the lowes of. this thiswing band, and the most wanton destruction of property has marked us of the grandest coundries the work et seem. These men, who appropriate then selves " Hell Cats," are said to b many the self cats and morderers from the villin penitestiary, and for compensation repulse only for the privilege of savas repulses.

Gen. McClellan--- Hts Labors and R :-[From Col. Porney's Correspondence of the Phila-delphia Press.]

(From Col. Formey's correspondence of us runs delphia Frees, delphia Frees, delphia Frees, while the politicians are surrounding Gen. McChilau, and demanding that he shall advance upon Mabassas, he maintains his equantimity and keeps his secrets. At last he is left-the unembarrassed master of his own movements. This had become necessary in consequence of his individual energy and activity. He leaves nothing to others, and sithough greatly absorbed in perusing reports, examining mays, and directing dotalls, is more in the saddie than say of his staff. Conculting with the President and the Cabinet daily, and listening to the advice of the Lieutenant General, whose advanced years renders confinement to his chambar unavoidable, the duties of the field, and the whole scope of the campaign, demanded that he shall be left to take his own course. Ho will not be hurried, nor driven, nor dictated to. The responsibility devolving upon him is stupendous. The army subject to his command is one of the largest over called together by any nation, and, although composed of splendid material, and completely armed and equipped, it is not as thoroughly disciplined as the troops that served under leaders in military and monarchical governments. To see that these precious lives are not wasted by precipitate and hasty action is his coustant care. The confidence reposed in him by the soldlers has become so great that where he leads they will follow. They feel that his interest in them is uncoasing, and they know that his sleepless nights and untring days are equally given to their confort and eafety, and to the honor and giory of the country. If I dared to expose to you the intrincies of his position, and the amazing requirity and order that he has infused into the army, you would be struck no less by his caution than by his foresight. The cavairy, and the structure and seatery, and to the time was the man them has n News from New Rexico.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Oct. 15.—The Santa Pe mair reached here yesterday morning with dates to the 1st inst. The conductor states that G. B. Miller, formerly sutter as TotWise, had gone South to raise troops, and will more northward with them.

Major Lynde's command of released troops, under Captain Pollock, numbering 250 or 500 men, were passed on Wednesday last, at the aread of the dry route, about 250 miles from here, on their way to the States.

Capt. Meinty, with his command of volunteers, were surprised about thirty miles from Fort Craig, and himself, Second Lieutenast and nine men were taken prisoners. The balance ran back to Fort Craig. They also captured two good wagons.

Capt. Morris, of the Riffes, with a command of foir companies are in pursuit of them.

Eleven companies, have been mustered in,

worked a magical change in the service, while the attention bestowed upon the health of the troops, and upon all depertments of the commisseriat—including that of the flowers and the commisseriat—including that of the flowers are general—is rapidly making the infantry as hardy and reliable as regulars. Above all, General MicChelian's resiscence is his highest quality. He is no babbler. What he decides upon he executes promptly and quietly, issuing his orders without parade, and cangestions, at the result of his own deep, profound and patient reflections. The enemy, conscious of all these things—even with the encouraging thought that they have driven McDowell back—is in no haste for an engagement, and sees the column of the American army slowly advancing, with somathing like a consciousness that it is a wave that never will ebb, but will go direct on, sweeping every inpediment before it. As our long like turns its face towards Manassas, entrenchments are thrown up, so that, even if refrest were possible, pursuit would be vain. Gen. McGleilan has been amiliently flattered, and these words of mine are not words of fastery. I speak of him not to piace an exaggerated estimate upon his qualities, but to give him the advantage of facts before the public, so that he may stand institled even to those who classor for immediate action.

Postal Arrangements at the South. There is very marked disastisfaction in the South with the postal facilities which Mr. Resgan has been forced—by a slim exchequer—to substitute for those of Uncle San. of our national power as to do comparatively little toward reviving the martial spirit of the country, and give opportunity to see service to relatively few, even of our military men. Of those who sorved in Mexico, and of those who have held command in the foreys against the Indians, generally, from the poeniar inflacances that have long been operating at Washington, a majority were and have been selected from the South, and they, with only here and there a bright exception, are now in arms squanst the Government.

The whole number of graduates from the West Point Milliary Accessing, from 1869 to 1806, it less than two thousand. This includes the dead, the disabled and those now in the relative errics. The total number of officers of all the selection, and never and marine forces, from the schooling militia and volumear forces, from the close, and nevry and marine forces and privates, at the breaking out of the rebellion, did not probably exceed 16,000.

The total strength of the require army, officers and privates, at the breaking out of the rebellion, did not probably exceed 16,000.

A large number of the officers have gene into the rebel acrivice, and some of the privates are disqualified.

Such are our sources of supply for veterm and experienced officers. Let us see how many are demanded for a force of he half million men. They take the observatories by storm, and compet the politic astronomen, who is presented from making serious observations, to point them out Jupiter's satellites or Saturn's rings. But even in the presence of the plasets, which should fill them with secred awe, they do not break off for a moment the thread of their firitations. Unhappily—and this is seen worse—these lovely ladies have interfered by Bocks in the liabors of literature. The Curepean discovers on the banks of the Chico or Mississippi an astounding number of celebrated poetcesses and romancers whom he newer heard of before; and this American crimoline literary cohort constantly pours fresh water on old testieness, and awangs the book market with a fearfully inslind bowerage. At times, too, they make their appearance as sirred practaces, and always play a great part in the intrigues of "ain religious sects. ression. Their complexion is the first transfer all the result is and tresh. They are all events tallid, like resions romance reason on their spine education and their spine education education and their spine education education and their spine education education education education and their spine education educat intre may be anything to be seen or heard in "lord of creation" can never feel asts in his seat, however early he may have taken possession of it. If any one tap him on the houseler and whisper in his seat the words of terror, "A lady," he must againg up at once, and is swept aside like dust by the crinoline to seak snother seat where he can.

And yet it would be possible to endure all this, and more, if the isdless unified with their authority, graciousness and a pleasant show of gracifude, and if they—the petiod and the Masses—did not regard all the services and in duigences of the men with such indifference, and as a tribute becessarily theirs. Generally, however, they behave as if the men did nothing but their duty. How may dislocate your spine in picking up anything a lady has let fall, or, like Raleigh, lay down your cost before her, so that she may pass dryshod over a paddle, and ravely will you be rewarded even by a mile. And all this roise the weaker sex of its tweetest charm, the gentle and irreslatible power by which it elsewhere enchains and thrells the heast of mas. Among us the stronger being bows to woman, and the weak darring, conscious of her heed and support, rewards him with her gratitude. But, in America, Fridolin does his duty like a nagroclave, and, of course, now and thes grows weary of the afair. In America this terribly degenerated recreace for women, which might be called motrally pampering and spelling, is naturally femace by the husbands, who have entered upoa life long slavery. If a lovely American gilike into the artms of a man, to be bound thim for his, she does so much in the same asas- as- ashe throws herself into hy case; shalf, Mriage is her pillow, her sofs, on which she itcads henceforth to reposa. DAVIS, SAWYER & CO 16 & 18---State Street --- 16 & 18 G. C. COOK & CO., The author says in conclusion:

I have mainly kept in sight the upper strate of society, which, however, sink very deep, as will have been seen, in America. I seed hardly add that in this great land, though it is extremely uniform, there are many shades of character among rich and poor, in towns and in the country, into which I cannot enter so fully as I could wish. There are entire districts—as, for instance, is the smaller towns of New England—where the female population, although somewhat infected by the general tint, is most respectable, plous and domesticated. Moreover, this pampering of the women, which I have criticized, has its good side, as, for instance, this: that American mere, who display so title innate reverence for old age, or for talent, or for other things sizewhere highly esteemed, have in their vives at least something they woments, and which, nader given circomstances, may hold them in cheek. 16 & 18 ---- State Street ---- 16 & 15 NEW CASH STORE MARTIN & BROS. litical committees, is not at all taken into consideration. On entering the house the daughter is naturally seen slitting in the centre of the soft, and the conversion is excusively adversed to her. In many cases the mother is quite passed over. If she be at all old and scarisome, she generally sits with grandmamme, wasming herself at the firs. It often happens that a stronger may stand on very intimate terms with the daughters are he has been introduced to the mother. A THOROUGH SCHOOL, TOHN P. HOWGRABLE (*) CORRESPONDENCE.—By reference to the uppaid letter list in another column, it will be perceived that some one has writisen letters to more than two dozen live honorables, all in the State of Massachusetts, and forgotten to pay the postage. The list embraces the ex-Senste of that State. Either the writer of the letters is an unmitigated humbrg of a copy of the U. S. Postal laws might reach his case. It is a pretty well established fact, known to every school boy, that letters can't be forwarded without post-clergymen have already entered apon their sprointed work, and will lecture regularly through the year.

New Barroum.—An iron suspension bridge is being constructed at Defroit, three hundred and forty feet in length, for the Illinois Central Rallway, to cross Cache river, five miles from Cairo. The bridge has three spans and four towars, spon which, by means of wrought iron claims, the whole weight of the bridge, and whatever is on it, are made to rest. There are two of these bridges—one called a through bridges.

EARREY'S STRAING LIGHTS.—Mr. A. Barret, of this city, is at present manufacturing a superior article of candias which he claims will be burn for tweire hours without sunffing, and whan extinguished or blown out will leave no un pleasant or suffocating odors, as in the case with other slearing candias. Mr. Barret has christened his improved candias, "Stearic Lights." They may be obtained by applying to J. L. Patterson, Purchasing agent or earlinest Central Railrock, at the Central depot.

The great obstacle in the way of the general circulation of the new national currency, known as "demand notes" is the bousand debt factories called "banks,"

It is the interest of these concerns to crowd coin out of circulation, to make room for their own issues. The same hostility will shortly be evinced towards the "demand notes." The monopolists can not brook the presence of any currency intrinsically better than their own. They have almost complete command of the field now, and will only yield it after an obstinate and desperate resistance. The manufacturers of "promises to pay" have made too nice a thing out of the business to voluntarily withdraw. Look at the state of the case The shinplaster fraternity have too hundred millions of their notes in constant

It would be sufficiently intolerable if the imposition stopped there, but that is only the first of a series. The second is called "exchange and discount." By the arrival of an officer of Lane's Brigada, who left Kassas City on Sunday night, we have lade Intelligence from Western Missouri, Lane and Stungis, the foruser with three thousand and the latter with four thousand man, were still at Kassas City, unemployed and waiting orders. A sectous difficulty had spring up between these commanders, on account of Gen. Sturgis' unfortunate habits which are not well calculated to impulse confidence in his fitness to nunocurve a body of mes, and it had proceeded so far that it was understood, when our informant left, that Lane would no longer obey Stungis' orders, though the latter was his superior in rank. Lane's centiments were shared by the great bedy of his men, and nothing hat necessity, induced by the presence of danger, would be able to bring about a good understanding between these officers. It was further understood that Lane was about to make charges against Sturgia, with a view to have him removed or anapended. This is unfortunate for the cause in that quarter. Gen. Sturgis is an officer of great merit. In the battle of Wilson's Creek, where Lyon fell, he did capital service, and it is to be greatly regretted that he is now giving himself up to indulgences which carry with them consequences so detrimental to the Union cause. We take it for granted that Gen. loyal man to arrest the ovil. Some have apologized for it in time of peace, from motives of loyalty. From these same motives a bleeding country calls upon them now to crush it. If to preserve peace, to promote friendly relations, to ensure the stability of the Government, you have honeatly felt called upon to uphold, as one of the compromises of the Constitution, an institution that you would otherwise have condemned, will not these same patriotic sentiments now compel you to yield up everything for the preservation of the Government. If slavery stands in the way, shall it not go down? If the alternative is the Union or Slavery, which shall we choose? How much treasure must be expended, how great slaughter, how overwhelming ruin, before we can see clearly the issues involved in this contest?

But there is still a stronger side to this question: It is not even necessary that men should believe that slavery is an evil, in order to enlist them against it. For the hundred of the enemy were there and they seen fled, leaving the inhabitants to continue the fight, which they did by firing from their receivably everywhere, they would escape the innumerable evils attending the use o the present paper system.

A few days before the Oscoch expedi-tion, he took 9 men who had aworn allegiance, organised a drum-head court-mertial, and shot seven of them without delay. Two boys of the party were released. This terrible ar-ample has had a salutary effect. Postal Receipts and Expanditures. The suditor of the Post-Office Department has just submitted to the Secretary of the Triastry the quarterly statement of the receipts and expanditures of the Post-Office Department, required by law, for the first quarter of the year 1861. The receipts amount to $2,196,867; the expanditures to $2,996,750. Excess of expanditures over receipts, $803,171. For the fourth quarter of 1860 the receipts amounted to $2,146,301, and the expenditures to $4,087,505. Excess of expanditures to $4,087,505. While the sum of $1,087,706.

It is a little remarkable that the receipts of the past quarter, are larger with twelve States seceded, than they were when the postal system extended over all the Union. It was found on looking over the account current for the year 1800 that the cost of the service in the rebel States was $5,900,505, while the proceeds were only $830,578, making a loss of $3,006,487.

The people of the loyal States will have the satisfaction of knowing that while the war lasts, at least they are saved a tax of three millions will pay the interest on sifty millions of tax per cent. National bonds issued to help the Government to put down this rebellion.

From the report of Adjutant General Buckleghem, of Obio, to the War Department at Washington, it appears that Ohio has now in the field 29,624 infantry soldiers, comprised in 32 regiments; 662 artillery, it also batteries; and 462 cavalry, in four companies. The note which was issued as worth one bundred cents on the dollar is "quoted" and bought at a discount. The chave varies according to circumstances, being higher at one time than another. Sometimes the notes are done at a moderate shave; on other occasions they are tythed, and frequently redeemed on shares: the holder getting but half their face.

This miserable state of things breeds and sustains swarms of exchange brokers, who reap fortunes from the evils attending our currency hystem. Whatever is made by alaving bank issues under the name of "exchange" is so much dead loss to the people. What the aggregate sum is annually, would be difficult to estimate accurately. THE ASCENICAY BOARD ON THE STATE OF THE NATION.—At the late annual meeting of the American Hoard, held last week in Cleve-land, the following outspoken utterance was gives. The resolutions were presented through the Business Committee, their adoption moved by the Senior Secretary, and carried by an unsui-

as which threatons its very existence, and impers the success of this Missionary Board, and we reently impiore the God of Nations so to over-the the confect that the state of the state of the confect that the state of the sta cities, assembled before—an host before the numbers of which the armies of the Old World whose conflicts have become mile stones in history, seem well nigh insignificant.

"How many soldiers have we at Washington?" The reader must be referred to Headquariers. There is a plain, substantial, brown house on Madison square, formerly the residence of Commodore Deester and of Mrs. Madison, Here may be found used consulted at all hours of bindness, one upon whom more than upon any man in the nation just now centres public interest and attention.

Plain, unassuming in presence or surroundings, with no more of pomp or parade than if he was sitting in his office of the lilinois Central Rallroad at the foot of your Lake street, feeting the McGellain gay be reached on maters of business as easily as you could a few short mouths age have grained the presence of the Vice President of the Illinois Central Rallroad Company.

But no one for more motives of curiosity would ask or expect an asswer at Readquarter, as to the number of this army. Even the keepers reporter and saws monger have come to appreciate and approve the discretion which has drawn silence and accretion this vast muster of forces to vindicate the power and majesty of our Government. Regments come and their arrival is unnoted by the telegraph. Brigades are mastered and the face is not told by the Associated Press. A new camp, a freshy marked site fore fort, the rearring of reals earthworks, and the movement of immense slege trains to new positions in a double sense not a unitier of news in is in Source Washington.

The city is certainly set about by a formi-ciable line of earth works, (and may almost be-said to be, of forts, forty) commanding the full sweep from Alexandria, carried broadly sound to Bladensburg, and being pushed for-son's Hill was one. Within this area the camps of sursolders hilekiy dot hall-sides and valety.

Let us first notice the effect of this army upon the Capital as compared with the supects of a few weeks ago. It neets the eye at every turn and crossing. You see everywhere the unmistakable signs of returned condence. Ou the Capitol Hill the iron framework of the new dome has turned through nearly one quarter of its arc, since mid-summer. At the other end of the avenue, the workmen have set the substantial granite gaisways and the iron fence about the Tressury building, and the daily clink of hammers on stone and marble tells of progress there, and a confidence that these edifices will be completed, even as this Government will be completed, when the mad bends that have plucked at its destroying shall have been stricken down. The irrembling, quasking community of a few weeks ago, ready at a moment's warning, and at the dread summons of morier and columbial, to pack up their all in bundles and run away—a lown awaiting in terror a flery avalanche from Dirke with a scelling akin to that possessing the dwelters at the base of .5 that what time the mountain is in throne, are now no more of that timorous persuation. Capital is sensitive and knowe when it is easle. Moneyed men are ordinarily so cantious of their interest than those of money making may be predicated on their action, act by this rule too is Washington secure. House rents have gone up to a figure favoring landlords most sensibly, and to a point short of which, even in their concernitor for the public selety, the tenant would have of which looked down on Washington. We might pass as hour or a day here and not exhaust the interest or hallowed associations of the place, but we are off egain, pressing northward among the camps.

A new and admirable military road leads down the valley. At the boundaries of each brigade, the placets examined our pass. At intervals we passes while, now to converse with a soldier, and once for half as hour to winess the drill and evolutions of the sphendid Rhode Island Battery.

We meet a file of one hundred and filly army wagons going to more to a new posi-near wheel horse and directing his mar leader by a single line.

Here is Fort Corcoran, commanding a wide range with its heavy gans. More comps, more robliers and still more and as, we have come to Chain Bridge, a wooden structure throws wereasthe Fotomes three miles shove Googe-town. We cross and recross sonin. The Po-lomane is here an inconsiderable stream, at present under the influence of fall mins, form-ing astrong current over its rooky bed, and officing few or so instructures to besuregard here or elsewhere to essay the usual fords. The rebels did not take Washington at "15w ide," and they have lost the like havoring op-portunity in the Potomas. While this is true, it comes with a not grace from Gel. High to make any complaints on that core. B. fore Fremont's friends had confracts, Col. Biair's own political associates had them, and in more than once instance at round pulces. One case may be mentioned—that of a confract for beef at eight cents per pound, while a responsible party offered equality as good beef at five easis per pound. The way outsiders, who have no interest on either side will and on look at this charge, is that Col. Blair complains of Fremont's friends being on the inside because his own friends are left out in the cold. It is simply dog can doy, and the public service will be very little becored by the charge from one set of confractors to portunity to the Potomae.

McClellan very properly refrained from offering one himself on that day. But we have the significant hint that now that the rebels have thrown down the glove, thay will be put to their mettle, and that speedily. The sums called for—some of these are enormously dispropertioned to the work done or the material furnished—by unanuthorized contracts for unauthorized jobs of all sorts, will not be paid without having a general overhauling all around, and a thorough sifting of the claims. The hoasts freely made by parties in Fremont's suite, who have acted at once as partners in contracts and inspectors of supplies contracts and inspectors will have their hands full of work; and the harpies will fall far short of the realization of their magnificent expectations. That is asswing of a round million at least, and perhaps much more. If Gen. Fremont is continued as the head of the Department, which is now not improbable, he will have great reason to thank Mr. Cameron for his timely interposation. Unquestionably honest and patriotic, he has been imposed upon by a gang who would and titout to promise and even to pay, handsomely for their insuration of the insurgent cause, or for ensertious ones of the National propers, and they alone, and they not be nearly and boildy on the side of the Union, and more pronounced and outspoken than the Union, and more pronounced and outspoken than the organistion, officering, and trey, of course, cugit to the restract their control and outspoken than the Union, and more pronounced and outspoken than the organistion, officering, and trey, of course, cugit to the remaining a proper may be an elected of the Union, and more pronounced and outspoken than the Union, and th tion of the contest. This ingratitude will stick in the crop of Americans at least while this generation lives, and the time may come when John Bull will repent of his scurvy behavior in this our day of need and tribulation. Time sots all things even.

CHICAGO PRODUCE TRADE.

The receipts and shipments of flour, accounting officers will have their hands fall of work; and the harpies will fall far short of the realization of their magnificent expectations. That is a saving of a round million at least, and perhaps much more. If Gen. Fremont is continued as the head of the Department, which is now not improbable, he will have great reason to thank Mr. Cameron for his timely interposation. Unquestionably honest and patriotic, he has been imposed upon by a gang who would rain, if permitted to have full sway, the most competent commander in the world. Disappointed of their hopes of sudden riches, they will drop off and leave.

ANOTHER ADVANCE.

We have intelligence that a part of the Fideral forces opposite Washington have made an advance of two miles beyond Lewinsvilla. This was expected from the policy that Gen. McClellan seems to be pursuing. It is understood that he is willing to give the enemy battle at any time when they will come out of their entrepchments; but that he does not intend to allow them any of the advantages.

The paragraph quoted from the commercial columns of the N. Y. Tribuna, tells what is becoming of them. "They are received daily from the West in large quantities," sent home for redemption in gold by the banking fraternity, to make room for their own "promises to pay." The attempt to get the new National currency into general circulation among the people, will prove an entire failure, unless Congress at its next session shall lay a pretty stiff tax on the issues of the thousand factories which manufacture shimplasters for a long suffering people.

PORRIGH JOURNALS ON THE WAR.

An improved tone is discertible among British journals, in the manner in which rebellion question, with infaitely more can-dor and fairness than the British press. They have said nothing against the Union cause in a censorious spirit, and have not falled to utter an encouraging or apologetic word when opportunity offered. Their aversion to the rebels has been unmistaka-ble from the beginning, although them. ble from the beginning, although there are agents of "Secessia" in Paris ready to promise and even to pay, handsomety for

New Eussian Telegraph.

We learn from the New York Eussiey Fest, that a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in that city, was held on Friday "to receive "Colonel Romanoff, of the Imperial Russian "Engineers, who came to this country with a "Mr. P. McD. Collins, United States commercial agent at the Amoor river, for the purpose of examining into our telegra, h system." A line from Moscriv to Behring's Straits (a "large portion of which is stready completed" is in contemplation, and it is proposed to a "extend it, by way of Prince of Wales's Cape "and San Francisco to St. Louis, thus connect "ing Russia and the United States, and uniting a "all the principal telegraphs of the world "without crossing the Attentic cosan. The "proposed details are all complete."

It is the opinion of the men in this country whose strention has been directed to the telegraphic communication with Europe, that the line indicated is that from which the most is to be expected. It is improbable that the experiment of laying a cable between Newtoundland and Ireland will be very soon renewed the loss attending the former effort, and the uncertainty which still hangs over the working of a submerged line of attreen hundred miles in length, will assuredly, for a full deade at least, or until some notable advance is made in the telegraphic art, discourage the investment of capital in that direction; hence this Bahring's Straits line is at present the most feasible thing, before the work to the Russian connection; and that without its apparent certainty, they would have posiponed, perhaps ludefinitely, their great work. There are certainly no insurmountable physical reasons why the European line cannot be built. The inclemency of the climate in that portion of the country near the Arctic Circle is the greatest obstacle to be overcome; but that, with the experiences of the race in the Polar regions still higher north, will prove ally broken up, by the swithdrawal of its skel it clon regiments to Camp Benton, near St. Lonis, there to be consolidated and put in the field under the immediate supervision of Gen. Fremont. The local press has been greatly exercised about this "interference," as the seas arms, assay owner, assay everything. Gen. Zolice of the call it, and have stoutly denied there was any foundation for the rumor, until now Colonel Korner, Aid-de-camp to General Fremont, has arrived at Springfield and set all coult at frest by ordering forward the Trates Phalanx and Col. Beith's regiment, both insemplete. He is also endeavoring to consolidate the portions of regiments in Colonels to wait for months and months in which controls to wait for months and months of "have their regiments filled up." If, therefore, the consolidation is not promptly and suddanly made at Springfield, it will be necessary for Gen. Fremont to order it to be done at St. Lonis. Col. Keener remarks: "The moment a soldier is mustered in, he is liable to be used by the Government, and the untiliar ry commanders can assign him any time where they think proper; so they may assign whole companies, and I have no doubt that such a course will have to be parased within a very short time."

Upon this the State Journal says:

The moment a soldier is mustered in, he is liable to be to get a little proved and the say of the same force. The heart of the people and many have suffered. The can be sufficiently and restrict the set of the sum of the same force of the wirer had been forced to take refuse the sum of the s

A political demagogue, he was silent during the trombles which ended with the secession of Tennessee, but loud amongh in his denunciation of the "Lincoln Administration" when the people had assumed their present footing. He was made a Brigadler General and appointed to the command of East Tennessee. Hore his whole course has been in keeping with his gon-committal policy. Unexpectedly lenient to the East Tennessee Unionists, he has been called, in more than one instance, a traiter to the Southern Confidency. I have seen in one or two West Tennessee papers very litter articles on himself and course. In his invasion of Rentucky he seemed to labor with the asme plat received his commission and seen creases of this Department. The day before his departure for Handerson he waited on Gen. Sherman, the day before his departure for Handerson he waited on Gen. Sherman pased at him with one of those strange expressions which leave the observed in doubt as to whether it is a look of secretary or econ. Sherman's lip is elightly addicted to looking scornfully. Gen. Sharman asked the new Brigadier if he was the "Gen. Taylor naver surranders" Crittenden. Gen. Crittenden, not understanding the tone is which the inquiry was made, healtated and them seat, "Sea." "Have you ever commanded a Brigade ?" "No," said Crittenden, shaking his head; "but I can." Gen. Sherman examined him for a minute from head to foot. Crittenden drew kinnself up to his full height, and an eye-wineas said he looked likes giant under Sherman's scrutiny, and his eyes fashed fire as his cheeks reddened under the gaze. Gen. Sherman gave him his already prepared instructions—"You will go to Henderson," he said. Gen. Crittenden turned sway and bade him good evening. "When will you go ?" asked Sherman. "In the morning" replied Gen. Crittenden, taking his deventure. "Hell the." remarked Gen.

All the state of t charges against Gen. Fremont, unheatsmany endorse all the scu of the latter. This is isr from the truth. Up to the time of the compulsory surrender of Col. Muligan at Lexington, Gun. Fremont's friends were strong and numerous—who stood ready, willing and anxious to defend him on all suitable occasions. Since that event these friends have sensibly diminshed in number, and with very few exceptions, none stand ready now to defend Fremont for the failure to reinforce the gallant garrison at Lexington. Among the few who easies eres this task are the editors of the St. Louis Descerat, who austain Fremont upon every point whereon he is assailed. The true feeling of the Unionists in St. Louis, outside of those whose astachment to the political fortunes of Col. Bish produces an antipathy to Gen. Fremont, may be described thus: The Union upon anxious, above all things, that the came shall triumph, and they argue that the clamer for Gen. Fremont's removal, even if he is guilty of the charges his worst enemies bring against him, would be disastrous to the came. Hence' they say, cease petitioning for his removal or for a court martial, until the commanding General has had time to drive Gen. Price and his rebel hordes from Missouri, and if he fails, why then there is more reason for his removal. If he succeeds he will have refecumed himself. The errors of this position, as affecting the principle twolved, will be seen at a gisnee, but in the expediency view it is altegether aftered.

The visit of Secretary Cameron and Adjutant General Thomas to the headquarters of Gen. Frement has an unquestionable connection with the proposed removal of the latter. The Secretary and his companion, although open to free discussion of the merits and demerits of Frement's sets since his arrival in St. Louis, maintained during their short stay in the city a studied ellence as to their own opinions or conclusions. The way the charges and counter charges preserved against Col. Blaft by Gen. Fremont, and sice serse, came to be made public. It explained that a copylet employed in the office of the Judge Advocate, R. M. Corwine, was a reporter for the Chackmati Esquiers. The Denocrat's reporter found the charges against Blaje lying on a table one day at Fremont's Biodquarters, and ast down and copied than without the least murmur on the part of the officers. Bo liseems very little effort was made to keep the documents from the public after all. Gen. Fremont should vent his indignation on his Secretaries and Asastanta, or on himself for not taking pains to keep the papers accres.

The report that Gen. Negley of Pennsylvania is organising a Brigade, composed of four Pennsylvania regiments, to come out West, creates great astisfaction here on the supposition that the troops are bound for St. Louis. Better send them to Weahington and send us back a few of the Ohio or Indian boys, or else stop asking for more troops from the West for the Federal Capital. The sending of Uol. St. George Cook's regulars from Camp Crittenden, East, is an infernal outrage. Wondar it Weshington is really safe!

Supplies are going forward to JaCerson City by steamboats, sufficient to last an army all whiter. It has been hoped our "boys" would winter farther south.

Your readers who sit at home and inchige in uskind remarks concerning sensation reporters and sensation dispatches would have their views modified could they be present in Washington on such an oceasion as that of the arrival of such a runor from over the river. In the first place nothing is more desired by omisiders here than a fight. Our troops to a man would vote for it to-day from the remodest picked back to the hospital there is a condition forcelby expressed by the term "apoli ing for a fight." All have confidence in Gen. McCicilan and are willing to abide his time, but the earlier that shall come the higher will be the satisfaction.

But to the intest sensation. The "two horse men" had beard cannon and maskety near Lewinaville. There was volley after volley. They saw troops being hastily sent up the Leechung road. There was a mobile of the troops of the first volley. They saw troops being hastily sent up the Leechung road. There was a doebt of it. The War Department has its telegraphic communication with the Headquarters of each Division. That to Gen. Built's Head quarters, at Lewinaville, was being put on to any. FROM ST. LOUIS. [Special Dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.]

By Leon, October 18, 1861.

This has been an exciting day here, caused first, by reports this morning, in connection with the bridge burning, that the rebels had captured Ironton and were marching 30,000 strong on St. Louis; second, by a panic in the Exchange market, and the Impossibility of procuring say on any terms for Missouri money, coupled with the refusal of freight agents receiving freight for the East, in consequence of the trunk lines being blocked by freight already, so that shipments are stopped, except to Chicago and by lakes and canal; third, by the afternoon dispatches, giving Cameron's order to stop work on the city fortifications and the payment of outstanding claims contracted by Frement, amounting to several millions. The last report created the most excitement. Probably thousands are widing and dependent upon their pay from the Government. This increased the value of gold and exchange, and will prevent the discrediting of Missouri money eventually, as there is no other to be had for business purposes unless Government notes are largely circulated.

We have no farther particulars of the bridge burning. The surtherities are chary of giving news to the Press. The secasionists were in great gles, but cooled down by noon.

The work has not yet stopped on the fortifications, Cameron's alleged orders to the contrary notwithstanding. The Barracks are combursing. The sutherflies are chary of giving mews to the Fress. The secessionists were in great glee, but cooled down by noon.

The work has not yet stopped on the fortistications, Cameron's alleged orders to the construction of the perition of friends, on the ground of serious ill breath, and a pleage not to offend signin. His office was searched.

Fremont's removal is more talked of now than ever. Bair's fisinds are confident it will take place in ten days, and have so publicly declared.

The Democraf's apecial Jeffarson City dispatch, to night, says that Gen. Prentiles went to Tryton, last night, and had a conference with Ger. Fremont, at the encampment, the leaves for St. Louis to-morrow, on important business connected with his command. Ture O.n. Stony.—An eddarly man who gives his name as John Smith, halling from Otsego county, New York, and according to his own account well posted in all the various phases of rascality—as practiced in the great metropolis, was yesterday relieved of the contents of his wallet through the operation of a dodge perfectly familiar to the denizens of this city. The unsophisticated goutleman, travelling to Fort Wayne, on a wool-buying expedition, was met at the Central Depot by a "good looking," genteel person, who, of course, was going to Wabash, and had a quantity of wool to sell, and obligingly offered it to his travelling companion. He stated that he had purchased a bill of goods of a commission home, but had no currency smaller than a $100 note on a Canada Bank which he profered fo him in exchange for bills of a smaller denomination. The old gentleman had not money enough to exchange—but willingly offered him $40-cill they arrived at the depot. At the corner of Clark and Washington streets

K State Militia, of Riccklyn, the latter of the 2d regiment of Ricchlyn and the control of Riccklyn, the latter of the 2d regiment of Ricchlyn and the control of Ricchlyn and the control of Ricchlyn, the latter of the 2d regiment of Ricchlyn and the recommendation of the Ricchlyn and the Ricchlyn a Richard Guineas Hill, nephew of the celebrated banker of Publin, while at Brussels became acquainted with Miss Amy Georgians Bardett, grand designer of Sir Frances Burdett. The young lady hat been adopted by Miss Burdett Coutta, who took a lively interest in her weilars, and was, with her mother, Lady Burdett, makin; a temporary visit at Brussels. Among the numberless saltors for her hand was Mr. Hill, who was ultimately accepted. After the marriage they lived to ather happily for several years, passing a considerable portion of their time in traveling. It is necessary here to state that a life interest on the bady's fortune, which was very considerable with the exception of a small portion which was placed at her disposal, was cetfied as her husband at the marriage, and subsequently alse made a will dowleing the whole of her property, in Indian. posal, was actited on her husband at the maringer, and subsequently abe made a will downing the whole of her property, in 'indiang, it is understood, a valuable cetate, absolutely to him fat the event of no issue surviving har decrease. In the beginning of 1859, Mrs. Hill, then residing in 86. Stephen's Green, Bublin, and expecting daily to be confined, and being delirous that the acconcement should take place in London, left Ireland with this view. While on her journey, accompanied by her husband, she was taken unwell, and was unsale to proceed beyond Rugby. There she was laken from the carriage and conveyed to the mercet place where secommodation could be afforded, a small beer-house, called the Gibbs, about half-a-mile from the estated, and where she was felivered within two hours of the child-havolved in the present lequity. A few days afterwards her husband adopted a course to destroy the did nitty of the child, with the pressure object of possessing limself of the property desired by the will.

Hill went to the registrate, a Mr. Herbert, will.

There was no crystpelas—no hospital gangreen. All the desthe occurred rather from tow than high inflammation.

It was a common practice for the rebel sentries to fire at the windo we of the prison containing the logal captives. One mas, already mentioned in our dispatches, was killed in tils way—another was seriously wounded through the leg, without even putting his ised out of the window.

The ctimax of barbarity was, however, reached when the centry fixed into the window of the hospital. Fortunately, no one was silled, but the ball passed three feel over the head of the dying bed of one of our wounded, and went out at the ward diffor-behind him.
After these little secapates of the sentries, an officer generally canne over from Bursegard to tell the surgeon it was a mistake.

In one ward a single physician was left to take care (without assistance) of more than one hundred safe dity patients. Lint, bandsges, sponses, all hospital applaances were very scant, but in general were started between the rebel and the Union wounded with more

ININYONCEMENTS.

After the enemy had been driven from their lower intrenchments, and their battery reduced to one gun, our artillerists likecheed their fire, and took it more easily. The infanty brightened up, expecting orders to charge the works. But the General, who was more observent, dut not give the order. When the fire of our betteries was raging most fearfully, the rebels sent up two or three rockets, which he General supposed was a signal to harry up expected reinforcements, from the mountains. He consequently kept a sharp book out on the mountains rood, as did others, who were of the same opinion.

They did not have long to wait. Down the mountains, in the rear of the camp, came a column of men estimated at 5000, bringing with them served pieces of artillery of a unperior character. The reinforcements were received with cheers by their ratest and hadly round commades. The fresh pieces were planted upon the upper works, and cent forth a new time from the rebel side. They were at first badly served, the shots going far overhead. This they concrisined, and began to take pretty good aim.

Our artilleries, delighted with the new guns, we stat it once more with full force, and no more choose were heard in the rebel camp. They also threw shells into the limber above, where it was supposed the fresh infantry had abeliered themselves, and with the naked eye a great resurpering from the busines began to grow tillery exporting all the fun, and same that of the infantry had abeliered themselves, and with the naked eye a great resurpering from the busines could be observed.
